De gamle vismænd, har ud af deres egen ægte oplevelse, klart beskrevet vejen til at helliggøre vores liv. Deres anbefaling er ikke sat sammen ved at læse og oversætte fra mange bøger.

Ifølge dem, for at gennemføre de krav, den tunge tidsplan pålægger, skal du have hengivenhed, visdom og selvkontrol.

Rigtig opførsel er det store træs religion. Det er den evige kilde til sin styrke. Træet er fodret med vand af hengivenhed. Bladene og blomsterne er afkald og andre dyder, og frugten er visdom.

I disse stadier af vækst, hvis der er nogen afbrydelse eller mangel, det vil sige, selv om nogen regulering er gået glip af, vil frugten af visdom, som træet giver, blive påvirket negativt.

Husk derfor dette og hav en disciplineret og streng plan for at være konsekvent i din praksis, og du vil opnå åndelige fremskridt.

The ancient wise men, had out of their own genuine experience, have clearly described the path to sanctify our lives. Their recommendation is not put together by reading and compiling from many books.

According to them, in order to carry out the demands, the heavy schedule that Path of Action imposes, you must have Devotion, Wisdom and Self-Control.

Dharma (Right Conduct) is the taproot of the great tree, religion. It is the eternal source of its strength. The tree is fed by waters of Devotion. The leaves and flowers are renunciation and other virtues, and the fruit is Wisdom.

In these stages of growth, if there is any interruption or deficiency, that is to say even if any regulation is missed, then the fruit of wisdom that the tree yields will be affected adversely.

Hence remember this and have a disciplined and strict plan to be consistent in your practice and you will attain spiritual progress.
