Lord Krishna fjernede ikke, løste ikke Arjuna's illusion for ham i en håndvending, Han kunne have utvivlsomt gjort det.

Men han valgte at få Arjuna til at gå gennem trinene af høring, refleksion og koncentration, så han kunne opleve sandheden selv. Hvorfor bebrejde Solen for ikke at belyse dit værelse?

Åbn dørene og vinduerne, og solen, der har ventet lige uden for døren, vil bare oversvømme rummet med lys. Du skal bruge din intelligens til at fortjene Guds nåde. Det er formålet med menneskets indsats. For at hjælpe dig med at lede din intelligens til et højere formål og modstå vejen for sensuelle fristelser, insisterer jeg på, at du søger og forbliver i godt selskab, den hellige sammenslutning.

Der er større chance for succes i ens kamp mod ondskab, når man er i midten af åndelige helte.

Lord Krishna did not remove the delusion of Arjuna in a trice by His resolve; He could have doubtlessly done that.

But He chose to make Arjuna go through the steps of hearing, reflection and concentration, so that he could experience the truth himself.

Why blame the Sun for not illumining your room? Open the doors and windows, and the Sun that has been waiting at the doorstep for just that moment will flood the room with light. You must use your intelligence to deserve the grace of God. That is the purpose of human effort.

To help you direct your intelligence to a higher purpose and to resist the path of sensual temptations, I insist that you seek and remain in good company, the association of the holy.

There is greater chance of success in one's fight against evil, when one is in the midst of spiritual heroes.
